

WILLIAM (BILL) CASEY, MD

Dr. Casey was born in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. His father was a plastic surgeon, originally from Belfast, Ireland making Dr. Casey both an American and Irish citizen. Dr. Casey grew up in Tucson, Arizona and went to Loyola Marymount University to study Biology. He enjoyed playing tennis, soccer, and basketball during his college years.

After completing his undergraduate studies, he went to Wake Forest University (Bowman Gray School of Medicine) in the city of his birth to earn his medical degree. He then completed a general surgery residency in Greenville, South Carolina followed by a plastic surgery fellowship at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota.

Now Dr. Casey works as a plastic surgeon at Mayo Clinic in Arizona. He has special interest in microsurgery and general reconstructive surgery. Married with four of his own children and one stepson, he spends his free time fly-fishing, hiking, jeeping, and performing other outdoor and sports activities. Although soccer has always his passion, he finally learned to ice skate at age 36 to keep up with his boys. He has become an avid hockey player and plays several times per week.

From a surgical standpoint, Dr. Casey has become very interested in education and currently serves as the Program Director for the Integrated Plastic Surgery Residency Training Program at Mayo Clinic in Arizona. In addition to serving on the Mountain West Board of Directors, he is a member of several societies including the American Society of Plastic Surgeons, The American Association of Plastic Surgeons, the American Society for Reconstructive Microsurgery and the American Council of Academic Plastic Surgeons.
